

Trading Update: Take Profits in G8 Education

G8 Education (ASX: GEM) has long been a favourite stock selection of the iInvest Team, due to the ever growing demand in the child care sector coupled with the stock's attractive dividend yield.

G8 has had a terrific run up in share price over the last year, trading at a low of $3.09, and today reaching a high for the year of $4.71.

With the stock reaching it's high of the year today, we feel it is time to take profits out of the stock, by selling or reducing your holding in G8 above the $4.60 level.

With the sale proceeds, you could consider switching into one of the bank shares that is due to declare a dividend in the next couple of weeks (refer banks e-mail sent out 23/10)

If you would like to discuss selling your holding in G8 Education, please contact your adviser.
